British Stunned At Termination Of Lend-Lease By U. S.

Premier Says Stoppage Will Place Britain In "Serious Financial Position"

SUDDEN ENDING COMES AS SHOCK

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Great Britain has been placed in a very serious financial position by United States stoppage of lend-lease, Prime Minister Clement Attlee declared today in the House of Commons. He disclosed that Ambassador Viscount Halifax, presently on leave in England, would return immediately to Washington with British financial experts in an effort to seek a transitional accord.

Surprised As Attlee

Former Premier Winston Churchill revealed that he was as surprised as Attlee at the sudden termination of lend-lease and called the action "rough" and "harsh". Churchill said, however, that he could not believe that the last word on the matter had been received from the U. S.

Attlee disclosed that the stoppage of lend-lease had come somewhat as a surprise and declared that the British would have liked to have been consulted before the action was taken.

"We had hoped the sudden cessation of this great mutual effort would not have been effected without consultation and prior discussions," the prime minister said. "The sudden cessation puts us in a very serious financial position," he said frankly.

Former Prime Minister Winston Churchill, leader of the opposition, declared: "I cannot believe this is the last word of the United States."

Terms It Harsh

"I cannot believe so great a nation whose lend-lease policy was characterized by me as the most cordial act of history in the world."

TRUMAN PLANNING SPECIAL MESSAGE

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Senate Majority leader Barkley predicted today that the senate finance committee will approve a liberalized unemployment benefits bill for war workers before congress reconvenes Sept. 5.

President Truman plans to send a special message to congress on the compensation bill and "full employment" legislation. Democratic leaders indicated that these subjects would be pushed to the fore in the coming "reconversion session."

Sees Committee Approval

Barkley said the finance committee will complete hearings on the benefits bill in time to act upon it before congress meets. The measure provides a $25 a week unemployment compensation for a period of 26 weeks.

"I think that the committee will approve this bill and that it will reach the floor promptly," predicted Barkley.

Progress in consideration of "full employment" legislation is expected.

Japanese People

JAPANESE LEADERS
FACE TOUGH TASK

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—(INS)—The stark reality of defeat and the uncertainty and dread of the future were being emphasized by Japanese propaganda today in broadcasts designed for home and foreign listeners.

Editorials in three Tokyo papers—broadcast by the Tokyo radio and recorded by the FCC—were chiefly concerned with the nation's economic future.

The newspaper Asahi said in its editorial that "it is certain that (Japan's economic) future is going to be tenfold harder than the war economy."

The Tokyo radio beamed an editorial titled "Uncertainty and Dread" in English for overseas listeners, admitting Japan should expect a "stern" attitude from occupying forces.

"We have a right to hope and to expect that we will not be outraged," the editorial stated, "the state of near panic felt by the people over the possible excess which the army of occupation may commit should be summarily dismissed."

But the editorial nevertheless

To Ask Congress To Pass
Legislation Protecting
Servicemen's Jobs

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(INS)—President Truman today was believed to be preparing a request to Congress for legislation extending provisions of the selective service law protecting war veterans' job rights.

Gov. Herbert O'Connor of Maryland, said after a White House conference that Mr. Truman is keenly aware of the problem of job security for returning servicemen and already is studying it.

"I found the President anxious to do for the veterans everything possible to guarantee their job security," O'Connor said.

The governor told reporters that he and the Chief Executive discussed the radio address of Selective Service Director Hershey in which the latter pointed out that protection for veterans to return to their pre-war jobs would end with the present draft act.

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

MANILA, Aug. 24.—Japanese Imperial headquarters messaged General Douglas MacArthur today that the Moscow radio announced Soviet airborne troops were preparing to occupy the Northern Jap home island of Hokkaido.

"Should the report prove true," the radiogram said, "it would be greatly regretted by the Japanese government who is doing its best in order to fulfill all your requirements by placing the army and navy forces and civilians under strict control."

"It is earnestly hoped that the armed forces of the Allied powers will enter Japan according to the plan as has been notified by the headquarters of the supreme commander for the Allied powers."

General MacArthur announced late tonight that advance Allied airborne units will land near Tokyo Sunday in preparation for the main occupation forces which will land Tuesday.

In the crowded, ancient courtroom, where the former Nazi puppet premier is on trial for his life as his country's arch traitor, Quisling listened to a recording of a speech he broadcast on the night of April 9, 1940.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Rep. Bloom (D) N. Y., chairman of the house foreign affairs committee, predicted today that congress will demand a reorganization of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

"What's more," Bloom stated, "we will expect a complete accounting of UNRRA's activities before we will authorize any more funds for its work."

Bloom's committee is slated to meet soon after congress reconvenes September 5 to consider a request for an additional one billion dollars for UNRRA for winter relief.

Congress previously appropriated 800 million dollars.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—Sources close to Don Juan pretender to the Spanish throne, declared today he is prepared and determined to return to Spain but only as head of a government which will be capable of creating a new order without violence.

The son of former King Alfonso XIII was described as opposed to Franco and was said to have denied flatly reports that he had reached an agreement with the generalissimo.

Opinion Echoed

Don Juan declines to be quoted directly but he permitted his representatives in Paris to echo his opinion that the Republican "government in exile" in Mexico City would be unable to depose Franco without bloodshed.

The heir to the Spanish throne now waits in Switzerland for the expected termination of Anglo-American economic aid to Franco and a subsequent call from Madrid.

Don Juan believes that Spain can make a peaceful transition from the Franco regime only through the throne.

He was said to regard the Spanish people as being unready for full democracy such as exists in the United States, but believes democracy under a monarchy is the best solution for his countrymen.

French Avenge Nazi Atrocities

Occupation Troops Said To Be Confiscating Food, Cattle, Furniture And Fuel

By LOWELL BENNETT
U. S. S. Staff Correspondent

MAINZ, Germany, Aug. 24.—(INS)—Occupation authorities confirmed today that French occupation troops are taking severe revenge on some eight million Germans in their zone.

A campaign of wholesale requisitioning is revealed in the vast quantities of furniture, food, cattle and fuel being seized and shipped to France. Even greater stocks are being consumed on the spot.

Impossible Task

A nearly impossible task of rehabilitating the zone confronts anti-Nazi administrators—many of whom spent years in German concentration camps.

Herd of milk cows are being slaughtered and poultry and pigs are being butchered by French occupation troops who are living off the land just as the Russians do. As a result, the Germans in this zone face almost impossible living conditions during the coming winter.

A number of French officers and German regional administrators, agreed that the situation is grave, and little hope was held forth for improvement in the near future.

Apprehension In Japan

The broadcast revealed Japan's apprehension concerning the size of reparations which the Allies will demand, adding the hope the Allied powers will "make every effort to clarify this matter as quickly as possible so as to remove the apprehension which is paralyzing the return to normalcy."

Asahi's editorial showed concern over Japan's future food supplies, declaring the importation of rice from Korea, Formosa and Manchuria "is impossible," and pointing out the necessity of supplying occupational forces and "those Japanese residents abroad returned to Nippon."

Must Drive Home Defeat

The job of driving home to the Japanese people "the stark reality that Japan has been completely defeated," according to another Tokyo radio broadcast, has been given to the imperial Japanese diet.

The diet has been called into special session by the cabinet for two days beginning September 1. This will follow the initial occupational landings on Japan. According to the cabinet report, Tokyo radio said the Jap ministers had also instructed the diet to clarify "the circumstances leading to the end of the war."

An admission of the results on Jap airplane production by Allied air strikes on factories and assembly plants was given by Lt. Gen. Endo of the Japanese munitions ministry.

Tokyo radio quoted General Endo as saying Japan's aircraft production dropped from a peak of 3000 a month in June 1944, to only 1000 a month by July of this year.

TERRIFIC STORM HITS TOKYO AREA, MAY MEAN DELAY

100 miles west of Okinawa this afternoon and driving toward Japan. Second Typhoon

Another typhoon of lesser intensity was reported between two Jima and Tokyo along the route B-29s are scheduled to fly tomorrow on the first day of their aerial patrol of the beaten nation.

The message to MacArthur concerning the typhoon that struck the Tokyo area said communications and transportation were damaged and added:

"We feel it necessary to inform you that in spite of our best efforts the preparations required by you for the entry of the advanced party are meeting some difficulties."

Another message asked MacArthur for reassurance as to the time scheduled for the landings.

The storm struck Allied naval forces and planes prepared to take over control of Japanese skies and coastal waters tomorrow.

Certain To Block

Correspondent Lee said the storms were almost certain to block a landing of an advance party of airborne troops which Tokyo claims, without confirmation, will be made at Atsugi airbase on the outskirts of Tokyo Sunday.

Such a landing has not been mentioned by MacArthur, but Tokyo has insisted a reconnaissance party would land that day to prepare for arrival of MacArthur and a large airborne force Tuesday.

Lee quoted the air force weatherman on Okinawa as saying that the largest typhoon probably would straddle the Okinawa-Tokyo air lane Sunday.

"At the present time," the weather observer said, "it looks like a postponement might be necessary."

"This is the typhoon season and we will have to be lucky not to get interference with at least some part of our landing program."

MacArthur Advised

Gen. MacArthur undoubtedly was being kept fully advised of the storm developments, but there was no word from his headquarters that postponement of the occupation landings Tuesday and his acceptance of Japanese surrender aboard the battleship Missouri in Tokyo bay next Friday was contemplated.

Indicating that Tokyo has little hope that the landings would be delayed, Domei agency broadcast a joint communique of the Japanese government and Imperial headquarters asserting that key areas on Kyushu Island would be occupied within two days after the formal surrender ceremony.

The Domei broadcast, made in the Japanese language, declared the Kyushu landings would be made in a "strategically" beginning with arrival of airborne troops at Kanoya airfield in the southern sector of the southernmost home island Sept. 1.

"On Sept. 2, the dispatch continued, 'the main strength of the airborne and surface units will land in the vicinity of Takasu on the coast west of Kanoya.'"

In order to avoid complications, our armed units will be withdrawn from the areas where the Allied armies are to land."

There has been no mention by MacArthur of landings other than those near Tokyo and at Yokosuka naval base on Tokyo Bay.

The message concerning the time schedule of surrender requirements said:

Asks Information

"The Japanese government wishes to be informed if the hours indicated in your requirements presented to our representatives on Aug. 20 at Manila are to be understood as Japanese time."

While the government's messages hinted that the Allied landings may not go as smoothly as MacArthur had ordered, Domei agency said the people were "calmly awaiting" the arrival of the victorious troops.

Domei said there were "no signs of perturbation" among residents of the Atsugi airfield district and that a like situation prevailed in the vicinity of Yokosuka naval base on Tokyo Bay where amphibious forces will be put ashore by Admiral William F. Halsey's mighty Third Fleet. Tokyo radio broadcast that "some casualties" were caused by the typhoon, 18 houses in Tokyo were demolished, 170 houses were "half demolished" and some 3,000 others flooded.

At Atsugi

Neither the government's message nor the Tokyo broadcast indicated, however, that representatives of the government and the Imperial high command would be prevented from being at Atsugi airbase at 6 a. m. Tuesday as ordered by MacArthur.

The broadcast said the number of prisoners and internees was based on figures obtained a month ago, but that new inquiries were being made "to ascertain the exact number at the present time."

UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFITS BILL APPROVAL SEEN

to be slower. Despite optimism of sponsors of the measure, opposition apparently was beginning to arise to some features of the proposed legislation.

Questions Raised

Ralph E. Flanders, president of the Federal Reserve bank of Boston, raised important questions during testimony in which he endorsed the right to a job as an objective of society.

He declared that it would be impossible for the government to provide markets directly by federal expenditures under the conditions of private enterprise unless the government undertakes has "been reduced to manageable proportions."

"I raise the question," Flanders said, "as to whether it would be possible for governmental expenditures to have provided sufficient work for the conditions which were allowed to develop in the great depression without having to resort to the means which became a part of our war-time provisions of employment; namely, wage and price controls and a great expansion of the national debt."

Kept Within Bounds

"The proposed function of the government in providing markets by direct expenditure becomes practical under free enterprise only if the problem is kept within bounds by other means."

Flanders indicated a belief that many governmental policies as well as policies of business and labor unions would have to be adjusted to make the "full employment" bill work.

Tax relief may be advanced in importance of consideration in the "reconversion congress."

The administration, it was reported, is anxious for enactment of a comprehensive tax bill before next March 15, when taxpayers must make a final settlement on their 1945 income taxes.

'NOT LAST WORD' CHURCHILL HOPES, ATLEE SURPRISED

would proceed in such a round, harsh manner as to hamper a faithful ally who held the fort while their own American armaments were prepared. Churchill went on to Atlee admitted that the British government had not anticipated that lend-lease would continue for any length of time after the defeat of Japan, but he indicated plainly that the sudden ending of the arrangement Tuesday by President Harry S. Truman came as a shock.

The prime minister said that British overseas shipments that were going out on the eve of the Japanese defeat were equivalent to a yearly expenditure of about 2,000,000,000 pounds sterling ($1,600,000,000), including essential food and other non-military supplies.

"These items," he said, "we must now pay for."

Atlee said that British exports in the ensuing year were devoted to contributions totaling about $1,400,000,000 for lend-lease and that "certain other sources of income, mainly temporary," were providing $1,700,000,000 of materials.

Initial Effect Immense

"This initial effort with which to start the task of re-establishing our own economy is immense," he said.

Atlee explained that the fact that lend-lease was a division of effort between the British and their allies leave the Britons far worse off when sources of British assistance are dried up than it leaves "those who afforded us assistance."

He said that if the role assigned to Britain had been to expand her efforts so as to provide a larger margin over her current needs the British should have been in an immeasurably stronger position than they are today.

London, Aug. 24.—(INS)—CBS Correspondent Edward R. Murrow reported from London today that the manner in which American lend-lease was cancelled "has created a deep and bitter resentment in England."

portation, formally received the documents appointing him director of the system in his offices on La Salle street today.

They were brought to him by plane from Washington by Clair M. Roddewig, ODT general counsel. Kirk, the colorful railroad man who rose from section hand to his high office, said, almost casually:

"I just told the I.C. chiefs to carry on as usual. I won't bother them much. I have a lot of other railroaders to tend to. The I.C. will run okay."

Strike Unthinkable

Kirk had the new job handed him by ODT Director Col. J. Monroe Johnson shortly after President Truman issued his order last night at 9:30 CWT.

The President said a railroad strike at this time was "unthinkable." He acted after a day-long meeting called in Washington by Reconversion Director John W. Snyder failed to reach an agreement in the dispute which involved the railroad management and two brotherhoods.

JAPS STILL SCREAM OF BOMB EFFECTS

Most of the wounded the Jap correspondent said are in extreme pain and shout "please kill me quick!"

List Growing

The Jap correspondent said that the number of dead at Nagasaki—target of an atomic bomb Aug. 9—is growing day by day.

The present estimate of dead wounded and missing at Nagasaki was given by the Jap radio as 23,000. Domei agency reported reconstruction workers at Hiroshima suffered burns as late as a week after the bomb was dropped.

The Domei dispatch said: "An examination of thirty-three servicemen of whom ten had received burns while engaged in reconstruction projects one week after the bombing took place, showed that those with burns had 3,150 white corpuscles and others who were apparently healthy had 2,500. Compared to an ordinary healthy person who has seven to eight thousand white corpuscles this is a drastic decrease."

Claim No Recovery

On the other hand servicemen with burns had only 3,065,000 red corpuscles and others apparently healthy 3,094,000 which when compared to four and a half to five million red corpuscles of an ordinary healthy person is again an extreme shortage. This shows no one can completely recover from injuries sustained by the atomic bomb as long as he "has any" other illness, it has been found.

"The radioactivity of uranium has thus truly dealt a major blow against Hiroshima's hopes of post-war reconstruction and rehabilitation."

Broch said the queen's bedroom had been turned into a guardroom by Quisling's guards and the royal chapel was being used as a junk room.

Denies Charges

Quisling rose at this point and furiously denied that he had abused the royal palace. He also protested that he had not stolen effects valued at 80,000 kroner (approximately $20,000) or melted down a silver plate to be sold in the black market.

The defendant, who time and again has been warned against his outbursts, shrieked a denial from the palace where he found a his room.

"The prosecution is trying to besmirch my character," Quisling screamed.

"The statues were taken for protection from air raids."

On The Way Down

Relief from wartime tax burdens is definitely on the way. With Secretary of the Treasury Vinson agreeing that speedy action on revision is necessary and that the program should include reductions in income taxes effective next year, it may be accepted as a certainty that positive action will come soon.

Mr. Vinson is not ready to be specific beyond the general views he expressed in his report as director of the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion, issued on July 1, but the important point is that he does not insist in retaining the present tax law intact. Like Senator George, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and Representative Doughton, chairman of the House Ways and Means committee, he is prepared for an immediate attack on this problem.

It also appears there will be a more cordial relationship between the executive department and Congress now that Secretary Vinson has been installed at the Treasury. Not only is he held in high regard by his former colleagues, but his views on taxes are likely to accord with those of Mr. Doughton and Senator George. He is on record as favoring prompt repeal of the excess profits tax and modification of other taxes to encourage risk-taking and business expansion.

Only those whose incomes are in the lower brackets can count on having their tax liability removed or substantially lowered next year. It will be necessary for the government to collect revenue at levels far above prewar figures for a long time to come, which means that downward adjustments must be limited. But some relief is coming, and it will be welcome.

Brighter Picture

Results of a survey made by the National Association of Manufacturers, as made public by President Ira Mosher, do not support government forecasts that there will be 5,000,000 workers jobless within three months and that the total may rise to 8,000,000 by next spring. On the contrary, they paint a much more encouraging picture of the immediate future.

The survey, according to Mr. Mosher, shows that a very small percentage of workers need be out of employment for more than a month as industry swings into peacetime production. Indications are that fewer than 1,500,000 will be out of work for more than thirty days, and most of these will be back on the payroll again within three months of the start of reconversion.

There are figures to back this optimistic view. Approximately 61 per cent of manufacturing concerns, Mr. Mosher points out, have no reconversion problem whatsoever. An estimated 28 per cent will require less than thirty days to get started on peacetime production. That leaves only 11 per cent that will need more time. Moreover, he noted that manufacturing employment has already dropped about 3,000,000 from the peak of 17,200,000 for November, 1943, and he prophesied that post-war employment in manufacturing would run between 14,000,000 and 15,000,000.

Mr. Mosher says also that millions of workers will return to their homes, to the schools, and to various non-manufacturing industries where they were formerly employed. Small business enterprises will increase. The shift will be of huge proportions, and it will take time, but he believes it will be accomplished with far less dislocation than some pessimistic observers expect.

Billions In The Bank

Having appropriated, without reservation or quibbling, every single dollar which the government ever asked for war purposes, Congress is well within its rights and even duty-bound to recapture immediately as much as possible of the unexpended balance. The total thus at hand is approximately $126,000,000,000, and while some of the war agencies will continue to function and so require funds, the great majority are being liquidated.

The Nation will welcome the announcement by Representative Cannon, chairman of the House Appropriations committee, that he has already asked for reports of the financial status of all war-spending sources. That is a logical first step. The second ought to be a thorough review of the different commissions and boards to determine whether they have any further work to do. If their task is completed, they should be abolished without delay.

President Truman has indicated on more than one occasion that he is opposed to governmental extravagance. While there is much that he can do personally to cut down expenses, he will also have to help from the legislative branch. That he is now assured of this support promises something for the country's financial future—a future which will be difficult enough under the best of conditions.

When an atom crashed to earth rises again, it takes everything with it.

Jap war lords, who seemed to think they deserved a good conduct medal for their part in the war are gradually being disillusioned.

So rapidly are war-created government bureaus being abolished, bureaucrats may get the impression there is not much future in their calling.

It might be a good idea to turn the country back to the Indians and start all over again, but it is doubtful whether they would be willing to assume the mortgage.

Agricultural Mechanization May Bring Many Difficulties

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—"I assume," says the senator, "that you believe in the free enterprise system."

"Why certainly senator," says the witness. "Of course I believe in the free enterprise system."

We all believe in the free enterprise system—and why shouldn't we, since in this great, rich country it has given us a higher standard of living and a better life than the world has ever known. But belief is not enough. Constructive action is necessary to keep it free.

This is not the America of unlimited natural resources and free land. It is America of the machine. The revolution of the machine has never stopped. Now, with the war's end, that revolution is surging ahead. I couldn't help but think of that as I sat listening to the senate committee hearings on the full employment bill.

At Memphis, Tenn., the International Harvester company is pushing with all possible speed the construction of a big new plant. That plant will make a mechanical cotton picker. One of those mechanical cotton pickers will do the work of 35 to 50 pairs of hands.

It will take a year or two to get the mechanical picker into mass production. At least one other firm is preparing to make a mechanical picker. The price today of what is practically a handmade model is $3,700. Mass production will bring it way down.

During the war, when labor has been scarce, cotton farmers in many areas have introduced new methods that have drastically cut the need for hand labor. Cross plowing, with tractors, last spring, reduced hoe work from two-thirds to five-sixths.

When the mechanical picker is in mass production it will replace by conservative estimates, 1,500,000 workers whose main source of livelihood is hoeing and picking cotton. Some put the figure as high as 3,000,000.

This will occur in a period of from five to 10 years, although it may come very rapidly. In Georgia today, there is one mechanical cotton picker. When the machine is in mass production there will be at least 2,500 according to department of agriculture estimates. Multiplying 2,500 by 50 workers, you get 125,000 displaced in one state alone.

The mechanical picker, with the addition of a small and inexpensive device that dries the dew-wet cotton, can operate day and night. Anderson, cotton factors, estimate the cost per bale picked by the mechanical picker at $3.26, and that includes $2.04 in depreciation on the machine. At present wage rates the hand picking cost is $3.85 before the war. It was about $1.75.

We had forgotten the Oldies in John Steinbeck's "Grapes of Wrath." The big tractors eat and roddo down everything before them, including the cabins the share croppers had lived in. The Oldies took to the roads, the farms became factories.

That is what seems likely to happen in large sections of the cotton south. The people who picked the cotton never got more than a bare living. But under the sharecropping system, they lived in the place that were anchored, after a fashion, to the land and to stability, or a sort.

The department of agriculture is circulating a document called "Reconversion program for the cotton south" which sets out what mechanization is bound to do. The solution it proposes seems a little vague.

The displaced farm workers must find jobs in industry, say the experts, who put the tentative program together. That means there must be a great expansion of industry in the south. They estimate that southern industry must expand by two-thirds if it is to absorb these unwanted hands.

But industry, thanks partly to technical innovations made during the war, will need more than the current per man enormously in the next few years. The increase may be as high as one-third by 1950 which means that many fewer workers will be needed.

If these unwanted workers are put out on the roads, how long will they believe in the free enterprise system? That is a question the senate committee had better think about before it is too late.

OLD WORLD

Were I to make the world anew,
From all its evil free,
I still would need a friend or two
To share the years with me.

And could I do away with hate,
Which spoils the lives of men,
I'd still want tulips near my gate
When spring returns again.

I'd try to do away with pain
(So wrong does suffering seem)
But, words and brooks I'd still maintain,
Where man can doze and dream.

But, when I'd made the world anew,
It wouldn't seem so strange,
Just as it is, this earth would do,
If men I'd never to change.

Bitter indeed must be the cup that a smile will not sweeten.

At the dinner table, little Johnny suddenly asked: "Dad, are caterpillars good to eat?"

And the fatherly father scolded: "Haven't I taught you better than to mention such things at the table?"

Then followed a few minutes of painful silence before the mother asked: "Why, Johnny, why did you ask that question?"

"Well," admitted Johnny, "I just saw one on Dad's lettuce but it's gone now!"

Moral support isn't as substantial as dollar support.

Some more mistakes are: Enthusiasm instead of enthusiasm. Politics instead of it. Preventative for preventive. Tremendous for tremendous. Sentences such as this: "Anyone wishing to go with me should get their coat." Either change the construction to include a plural subject or substitute his for theirs.

Then, of course, there are the "cat people" who pronounce now and how like meow. A common error is data is. Data being plural. A thing cannot be more unique or less unique. It is either absolutely unique or not so at all.

A candelabra is incorrect. The singular is candelabrum. Candelabra is plural.

It is surprising the number of educated people who say: He don't, she don't, it don't.

Do not be afraid to use the words man and woman. For example: "My sister knows a man who has come back from Japan" or "My mother's best friend is a woman missionary in Burma." The use of gentleman and lady in such cases denotes that the speaker feels inferior to the person in question.

Tomorrow—On Being Polite

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

HANDLING EARNINGS PROPERLY

There never was a time when so many high school youths have had opportunity to get part-time jobs as now. Nor when they could earn so much money. What are they doing with this money? How many of them are spending it wisely? How many of them have learned the alphabet of thrift?

Well, we must not scold these youths for their reckless spending on passing pleasures. Who has ever trained them to handle money well? How many of them have learned before they began to earn to hold themselves to a reasonable allowance or budget? (My special bulletin, "Allowance," may be had for postage in a stamped envelope.)

Excellent Training

Many parents seem to feel that the child who is earning a lot of money is gaining excellent training in self-reliance and other good character traits, no matter how he spends it. But suppose, usually is the case, he earns far more than he should spend without following some self-denying rule. Suppose he budgets little or none of his earnings for his own clothes, for investing in future education or other permanent values, or for contributing to his family needs.

As a rule, a good guiding principle would be something like this: How much did the youth have for pocket money when his parents provided it? If in case he received a definite regular allowance before he began to earn, let him budget for his pocket money on exactly the same amount after earning.

But if he has not had adequate guidance in such matters before he began to earn, he naturally will be inclined to spend with little or no self-restraint on passing pleasures, and save afterwards, if any.

Let us see what may happen.

1—Don't let that baggage that men need back more than women.

2—Don't assume every woman is going to get married and leave. Statistics are against it.

3—Don't make an appearance, even a glamor girl may have an invalid mother and a kid brother to put through school.

4—Judge the applicant as an individual on the basis of ability.

These were some of Miss Hickey's thoughts before she left for England, where she will exchange opinions with women leaders in a country where all women were drafted to work or serve in the armed forces.

Invited To Britain

Miss Hickey, who is president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, was invited by the British government to visit England.

She also was invited by Miss Hickey to be called by British counterparts. Miss Hickey, honorary secretary of British Women Power committee.

Both of these British women have visited in America and have been fully informed through Miss Hickey of the contribution women workers have made on the production front.

While she is a guest of the British, her trip has been arranged and financed by our War Manpower Commission.

Miss Hickey was one of the consultants at the San Francisco conference and while her interests are focused on helping the working woman in the United States, she is an international-minded woman who knows that what affects British women will affect American women.

When she comes home early in September, she will probably find the character of her job completely changed. No more will she be begging women to take war jobs but counseling and helping them to do jobs as war plants close and help wanted signs go down.

Now it's St. Louis repeating of a large scale the recent experience of Los Angeles in the matter of pigs and the OPA. When Los Angeles county wanted to slaughter some sixty fat hogs grown on county farms as food for inmates of county institutions, OPA insisted that the county must sell the animals at the open market and buy them back.

If possible, A State law forbids the county to sell anything it can use after several days of locking the OPA unwound some of its red tape and let the slaughtering proceed.

The city of St. Louis which is also the County of St. Louis has on hand eight hundred eighty-five pigs ready for butchering. If slaughtered they would supply badly needed pork for city institutions. Because the city killed only twenty-two hogs in a two-month period last year, however, OPA says it can kill only its quota—fifty per cent of last year. That would not make a dent in the meat supply and would leave the city eight hundred seventy-three hogs to keep on feeding indefinitely.

If the institutions are to have pork, the city will have to sell its hogs on the open market and then buy the pork on the open market—if there is any.

If this red tape and rule-of-thumb government developed to the 10th degree, what is it?

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

What a miserable day out today! Here I am sitting at life for you through rose-colored glasses and it's raining and the sky is dirty gray and the flowers are hanging their heads, and there just isn't a bit of cheer anywhere in sight.

My wife's gone to the veterinary to get Deuce who got himself bitten in the ear and I am all alone in the house with the blue and gray besides because it's past my lunch time and I just don't feel like eating or sleeping.

All this is of course very very unimportant to the world in general and to you except that I hate probably had the same mood yourself or maybe you are having it right now.

December is August that it is and probably it's better that I am alone right now—because when you have those ugly, rainy-day blues you aren't very apt to be good company for anybody.

And when you do have those rainy spells you do a lot of thinking and all your thinking is negative and life seems to be empty and useless and you wonder what it's all about.

Human beings, certainly are funny creatures, aren't they?

Yesterday the sun was shining and it was nice and warm and I had company for dinner and everything was all right with the world.

But today just because there is some rain and fog and it's chilly and damp I've forgotten all about yesterday and don't realize that tomorrow—the day after tomorrow—the sun will be shining again and it will be another warm day and everything is going to be just fine and dandy.

But maybe it is good that we humans are that way.

Too much sun would become monotonous and we wouldn't appreciate the good things of life half as much as if there weren't some clouds in between.

Or take my wife and Deuce. When they are around—well, they're just around.

But when they are away I miss them like the dickens and I appreciate their smile as much when they come home.

A woman said to me the other day:

The two nicest things about my husband are his going away at night and his coming home in the morning.

I know there isn't much sense to all this, but there isn't much sense to a day like this either.

I hear the car coming up the driveway. And I hear Deuce barking.

For some reason I don't mind the rain so much more.

TOO MUCH MEAT

There is not much danger these days of getting too much meat. Meat and fish provide protein in a very acceptable form.

Milk, cheese and eggs are good providers of protein, too.

Children need a lot of protein for it provides material for growth. It is necessary for all ages. It makes up for wear and tear. It helps to protect against disease.

Protein from meat, fish, eggs and milk is called animal protein. It is the best kind.

Vegetable or plant protein is not as good as animal protein, but the two together make a good combination.

Battleships In Crash At Sea

Navy Reveals Battleships
Washington And Indiana
Collided In Pacific,
Year Ago

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(INS)—The Navy revealed Thursday that two of its modern 35,000-ton battleships—the Washington and Indiana—collided in mid-ocean darkness more than a year ago during the invasion of the Marshalls.

The Indiana suffered three dead and one injured while the Washington reported three dead and three missing in the first reported crash between dreadnaughts in World War II.

Happened February 1944
The accident occurred February 1, 1944, after the fleet had completed the bombardment of Kwajalein in the Marshalls, but the story was kept secret for security reasons.

Damage to the battleships was not sufficient to force either to retire from the task group at the time.

Ties steamed into Majuro atoll under their own power for temporary repairs and later went to Pearl Harbor for further check-ups and permanent repairs.

The Navy announcement did not place blame for the collision, which occurred when the Indiana, in compliance with earlier orders, commenced maneuvering to leave the formation in order to fuel destroyers.

No Heavy Damage
At 4:27 a. m. lookouts on the Washington reported a vessel dangerously close on the port bow. Immediately the Washington's engines were ordered "back emergency full," and word was passed to "stand by for collision."

Meanwhile, crew members aboard the Indiana saw the other dreadnaught and officers maneuvered unsuccessfully to avoid the crash of the giant warships.

A minute later the Washington smashed into the Indiana forward of her starboard catapult.

One of the Washington's officers, Lt. Berlett H. Stoddley, was knocked overboard but was picked up later by the destroyer Caperton.

He has been in service for four years, is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Cardella of this city.

Silver Anniversary Of 19th Amendment Will Be August 26

HARRISBURG, Aug. 24.—This year marks the silver anniversary of the ratification of the suffrage amendment.

The 19th amendment to the United States constitution, adopted on August 26, 1920, provides that no American citizen shall be denied the right to vote in the United States because of sex.

Women first voted on a national scale in the presidential election of 1920, and cast an estimated 6,000,000 votes. The candidates that year were Warren G. Harding, Republican, and James A. Cox, both of Ohio. The late President Roosevelt was the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for vice-president in 1920.

It has been estimated that women cast approximately 60 per cent of the ballots in the 1944 presidential election.

Bering strait, separating Asia from America, was first discovered and explored by a Cossack named Deshnev, in 1648.

Fisherman Is Held For Court

Alderman Claude Mantz today reported that following a hearing on a charge of pointing firearms, George B. Dicks, South Ray street, was held for court and has been released on his own recognizance pending trial. The information was given to by Walter Green, South Mill street. The act occurred during an argument when Walter and Robert Green, brothers, were at a fishing hole near Cascade street dump and Dicks objected to noise which he claimed would stop fish from biting.

DAUPHIN COURT ASKED TO RULE ON ALP TICKET

Ilan M. Hargest of Harrisburg, indicated a ruling would be returned "within a few days."

The A. L. P. filed nominating papers for Dittich and Arnold with the State Elections Bureau just before the May 9 deadline for accepting petitions. No objections, however, were entered prior to May 16, which was the last day for petitions to be noted under the provisions of the state election code.

To Show Cause
Judge Hargest ordered Secretary of the Commonwealth Charles M. Morrison to show cause why the petition should not be granted June 24.

Morrison upheld the bureau's ruling that judicial candidates may run on more than one ticket; and the jurist began preparing a ruling.

As the controversy raged, there appeared the possibility that the printing of ballots may be delayed and cause some confusion in the election.

Two of the state's major labor unions, the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor (AFL) and the Pennsylvania Industrial Union Council (CIO), announced that the "American Labor Party" was not "identified in any way with the labor movement" in the commonwealth.

No Connection
"I want to emphasize as strong as I can that this party has no connection whatever with the CIO or any of its affiliates," said PFLC President James L. McDevitt. He said a "careful investigation" of the new political group disclosed that it was "not in any manner identified with the labor movement" in Pennsylvania.

"Shooting Shea" Back After Rough Treatment

By TONY ZECCA

(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—Nise Nipponese flag, decorated the bridge of the gallant "Shooting Shea" today in a graphic epitome of the vessel's tour of duty before she was struck by a Jap baka bomb.

The bruised and seared 2200-ton light mine layer, arrived at the Philadelphia navy yard for repairs after weathering searing action while patrolling the way for the York invasion of Okinawa.

Got Six Planes

Commissioned the U. S. S. Shea, it earned its descriptive sobriquet when its guns blasted six Jap planes—including three kamikaze—from the skies in 19 minutes off Okinawa April 16.

Three more Japanese aircraft were blasted from the air in later engagements while the Shea swept the Okinawa waters for allied landings. Then, on May 4, a piloted Jap rocket bomb got through. The suicide airman joined his ancestors, and the Shea counted 35 of its crew dead—including one officer—and 50 wounded.

Whizzing toward the deckhouse on the starboard side, the baka bomb crashed through the bulkhead. It hit through the chart room, glancing off a fire control trunk, and tore through the portside bulkhead before exploding. Most of the men on the portside were killed instantly by shrapnel when spilled the deck, related Lt. Richard L. Greiner, of 200-10 Fraiser drive, Cleveland, O., acting as deck officer when the bomb struck.

Could Have Been Worse. "Had the bomb struck about six inches over farther," he said, pointing to the bent fire control trunk, "it probably would have blown up the entire bridge and added a lot more casualties."

Lt. John W. Markson of Milwaukee, the ship's doctor, was stunned by the impact of the bomb hit, but he quickly went to work on the wounded. An emergency hospital was established on the ship's fantail and the plasma was administered just as fast as it was being made up by four enlisted men.

Meanwhile, Greiner said, "we were busy fighting a dangerous fire in the magazine, where a powder bag caught fire. Luckily it didn't explode. Ten of our men were killed down there."

Cdr. C. C. Kirkpatrick, the ship's skipper, lauded the Shea's complete ment for a "splendid job". He was welcomed by Navy Commandant Rear Adm. Milo F. Draemel, with whom he served in 1941 when the admiral was "commander destroyers-Pacific".

As the ship was moored, beaming, happy crewmen scrambled down the gangplank. Their hands clutched precious leave passes. A number of wives were waiting them at the pier. They had been on constant vigil, since they had received telephone calls from their husbands informing them of their expected arrival.

Among the wives was 25-year-old Phyllis Gibbons-Neff of Philadelphia, who was anxious to tell her husband, Grelet, 28, ship's quartermaster, about their daughter, Sewall, who was born a month after he left.

Pfc. Clayton Conner Receives Discharge

Local Soldier, Holder Of Silver Star, Is Released From Service This Week

Pfc. Clayton Conner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Conner, of 422 Fairmont avenue, has received his honorable discharge from service, and has returned to his home here. Pfc. Conner has had three years and six months of service, two years and 23 days of which were spent overseas, where he was wounded in action, on May 6, 1943. He served in the Algiers-French Morocco campaign, Tunisian campaign, and in Sicily. After being wounded he spent four months in the hospital, and was in England preparing to take part in the Normandy invasion, when he sustained a compound fracture of the leg in battle training rehearsal. He spent eight additional months in the hospital as a result.

He holds the Silver Star medal for heroic action in combat, the Purple Heart, European-African-Middle East campaign ribbon with three bronze stars, and the Presidential Citation. He served with the infantry forces of the First Division, entering the service on January 29, 1942, and going overseas on August 2, 1942.

Potsdam is particularly noted for its associations with the long-reigning Hohenzollern dynasty, many of whose members are buried in the city.

Issue Warrants For Chairman

Accuse Alleged Labor Party Men Of Filing False Petitions For Office

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—(INS)—

Warrants were out today for the state chairman of the American labor party and three members accused of circulating fraudulent nominating petitions.

Named in the warrants issued by

Magistrate William J. Hess, were

Bernard Davidson, the state chairman, and William Skyles, Allen

Jackson and Leonard Harris, all of Philadelphia.

A warrant had previously been issued against Nathan Romm, candidate for Philadelphia city treasurer on the ALP ticket. He was accused of filing fraudulent nominating papers for himself and other

ALP candidates "knowing them to be false."

The warrants came as the result of an investigation of the "committee of seventy" allegedly non-partisan Quaker city civic group.

The committee declared that many of the addresses on the ALP nominating papers were non-existent and that some of the names themselves appeared to be "forgeries."

Democratic City Chairman James

P. Clark said he intended to ask the supreme court of Pennsylvania to act to prevent the Philadelphia county board of elections from placing ALP on the November 6 election ballots.

Aircraft Employment To Shrink 83 Per Cent

(Editor's Note: Following is the last of three articles dealing with the postwar problems of the aviation industry—Inc.)

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(U.S.S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Most optimistic experts in the government and the aviation industry predicted today that employment in plane plants will shrink from 2,480,000 to 335,000 in the postwar years.

A few of the slightly more than one and a half million factory workers that will be discharged may find jobs in the air transport industry which will need 175,000 more special aviation men, the allied services which will take on 50,000 and the government which may hire 10,000.

8 to 12 Years

According to T. P. Wright, civil aeronautics administrator, the figure of 335,000 employees in aircraft production was based on an estimate of needs eight to 12 years after the war.

William A. Burden, assistant secretary of commerce, estimated that in postwar years the industry could expect sales of more than one billion two hundred million dollars annually.

Burden's estimate, however, includes the production of 5,000 military planes, 300 large transport planes and 50,000 personal planes annually. There is no assurance that number actually will be built.

The aviation employment job accomplished by the aviation industry is indicated by the fact that it started with a total force of only 48,638 workers in 1939, and reached a peak of 2,080,000 in January of 1944.

Women Personnel

During one period more than 486,073 women were employed by the aircraft industry. That meant women personnel counselors had to be hired, special rest and recreation facilities provided and even nurseries installed.

Just how important military contracts are to the industry is indicated by the fact that even before the war they totaled 70 per cent of all aircraft manufacturing business.

Even Wright's estimate of postwar production is based on the assumption that, of the total, one billion dollars and 200,000 employees annually will be required to turn out military planes.

Should congress fail to appropriate the funds to continue development and experimentation of combat types, the subsequent shrinkage of the aircraft industry might be great enough to destroy it.

Radar May Save Lives In Peace Scientist Shows

Radar Emanations May
Guide Ships, Trains, Says
Pittsburgh Research
Director

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24.—(INS)—
Westinghouse Electric Corporation scientists predict radar, until now a potent war weapon, will be an equally powerful instrument to save lives in peace.

Dr. J. A. Hutcheson, associate director of the Westinghouse research laboratory, speaking before a group of newsmen gathered together to witness the first public demonstration of radar in the Pittsburgh area, said in reference to the recent Empire State building tragedy:

"With radar, there would be no excuse for anything like that to happen again. You could see the Empire State building 50 miles away."

The newsmen witnessed a graphic demonstration of how invisible short-wave emanations created enough heat to kindle steel wool.
The principle by which electrical impulses are generated and sent out by radar, and the method by which the impulses are reflected back was demonstrated by Dr. Hutcheson.

The scientist used a sheet of tin to reflect beams from a projector onto a bank of ordinary fluorescent tubes packed to one side of the normal path of the beams. The tubes glowed brightly when the tin was turned at the right angle, but went out when the reflector was taken away.

Peacetime use of radar in guiding ships through dangerous waters, and in preventing collisions between trains and automobiles, was predicted by Dr. Hutcheson.

United Nations Will Aid Italy

Secretary Byrnes Would Revise Italian Armistice To Aid Italians

By LARRY G. NEWMAN
(U. S. Foreign Writer)

Italy, wrecked economically, politically and for a great part physically by her tragic, blind following of Mussolini and Fascism, was given assurance today that the United Nations. Particularly the United States, will give her every assistance in rehabilitation.

Secretary of State James F. Byrnes told a news conference yesterday that the United States considered the two-year armistice terms imposed on Italy obsolete. And he added that the United States is seeking revision of the affair to bring about an early peace settlement with the co-belligerent nation.

At the same time, a United States sponsored motion was pushed through the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration council in London, granting assistance to Italy during the coming months.

Yugoslavia Opposed
The vote on the motion was 29 to one with Yugoslavia bitterly opposing the relief on the grounds that she was not convinced that Italy definitely had broken all ties with Fascism.

Will L. Clayton, assistant secretary of state and head of the United States delegation, however, inferred that Yugoslavia's opposition was an outgrowth of the war and urged that UNRRA look to the future and not to the past.

Italy's most unfortunate ailment of Fascism and defeat was lack of a capable leader of the De Gaulle type who could inspire the people with confidence and national pride. Italy had a series of government crises and each one of them left the people more confused and disillusioned than the last.

Good Augury
Now, with the war ended and some sort of stable government installed, plus the assurance of aid from the United Nations, the Italians regain a national confidence which is good augury for recovery even though the road ahead is rough.

One problem which Italy will long face and accept is the presence of Pseudo-occupation forces in her big harbors of Naples, Genoa, Tarento and perhaps a few others. Perhaps, once left alone at home and with the proper guidance and assistance from outside, Italy can get back on the road to recovery from the bad Fascist nightmare.

Soldier Son Gets Bronze Star Award

Word has been received by Angela Rose of 514 John street that his son, Pfc. Gregory L. Ross, has been awarded the bronze star medal "for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against the enemy at Luzon, Philippine Islands, on February 9, 1945. During an assault on strong enemy positions in Manila, the Japanese laid down an intense mortar barrage which inflicted many casualties on Pfc. Ross' company. In the face of the concentrated shelling, Pfc. Ross, a mortar gunner, moved across an exposed area to an advantageous position, set up his weapon and sent direct fire on the hostile emplacement. His skillful and accurate fire killed five Japanese, destroyed their mortar and enabled his company to advance and successfully capture the enemy emplacements."

New 1946 Autos Will Cost More

New Prices On 1946 Models Ranging Up To 10 Percent Announced By Companies

DETROIT, Aug. 24.—(INS)—The new prices on 1946 models with increases ranging up to 10 per cent have been announced by the automotive industry. It was learned Thursday.

The formula was given to each company individually this week after OPA representatives conferred with plant executives.

Setting of prices on new models is expected to accelerate production plans for passenger cars. The Ford Co. has been in production since July 3 but its slackened pace because the OPA's prices were not available.

J. S. Clements, chief of the price branch of the OPA, and his assistant, Fred Holder, held conferences with Chrysler, Ford, Nash-Kelvinator and the Hudson executives on Thursday. General Motors received its prices Wednesday. It was reported.

The 10 per cent increase permitted by the OPA does not necessarily mean that auto companies will charge that much more, industry spokesmen pointed out.

All price increases are to be based on 1942 OPA ceiling prices for autos.

Sgt. Duane Rodgers Is Twice Decorated

Grandson Of Local Residents Gets Bronze Star And Clusters For Rescuing Wounded

T-Sgt. Duane Rodgers, of Youngstown, O., grandson of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Rodgers, of Delaware avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brooks, of Neshannock avenue, has arrived at his home for a 30-day furlough after gallant service with the 119th Infantry.

Twice within the period of a few days, he rescued wounded comrades exposed to heavy enemy shellfire, for which he has been awarded the bronze star medal with oak leaf clusters, equivalent to a second decoration.

On November 29, 1944, in Germany, the citation states, he crawled 30 yards through intense mortar and artillery fire to rescue a wounded comrade. A few minutes after reaching a point of safety, an enemy shell burst on the very spot the wounded man had been lying. His heroic action saved his comrade's life.

Again, on December 2, in Germany, he performed a similar feat, bringing back the wounded men under intense machine gun and artillery fire, and rendered first aid, saving his life.

He also has the Good Conduct Medal, and a citation from Marshall Montgomery, for outstanding courage and achievement in the Ardennes battle.

Sgt. and Mrs. Carl Campbell, of Delton, Texas, have announced the birth of a son on August in Delton.

The baby is a grandson of Mrs. Lloyd Campbell, of 715 Arlington avenue. Sgt. Campbell is on duty in the Pacific at the present time.

Rev. Richard Evans Speaks Here Sept. 4

Noted Minister Who Has Battled Bigotry and Intolerance To Address Mass Meeting

REV. RICHARD E. EVANS

Under the auspices of the American Committee on Palestine and the Christian Council on Palestine, Rev. Richard E. Evans, an outstanding advocate of tolerance and democracy, will speak in New Castle at a mass meeting to be held Tuesday night, September 4. It was announced today. The place of the meeting will be announced later.

Rev. Evans was a Presbyterian minister in Milwaukee Wis., for ten years and in those years achieved national prominence for his fight against the German Bunds. Later he battled the Bundists in Yorkville, a section of New York City. Milwaukee proclaimed him its outstanding citizen and the YMCA made him a life member. The first time such an honor had ever been given.

He established the College on Democracy and inspired the Chair of Democracy at Florida Southern college. Some years ago he was convinced of the justice of the claims of the Jewish people for a national home in Palestine and he has been engaged in work for the Christian Council for Palestine for the past several years.

He is a speaker of conviction and power and should attract a crowd here.

Should Messenger Be Allowed To Walk 'Upper-Class' Dogs

Western Union Upholds These Duties; C.I.O. Says Lot Of Nonsense; WLB Must Decide

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(INS)—A war labor board panel today deliberated the fitness of Western Union messengers being asked to deliver "singing telegrams" and to walk "upper-class dogs" along New York's thoroughfares.

A complaint against those duties was lodged by a representative of the American Communications Association, C.I.O., who said they were "a lot of nonsense."

A company spokesman retorted by saying an employer should be allowed to run his business as he sees fit. He added:

"Singing telegrams are a source of revenue that can't be laughed off."

Farm Machinery To Be Inadequate For Year Or More

HARRISBURG, Aug. 24.—(INS)—Secretary of Agriculture Miles

Horst told Pennsylvania farmers today that it may be "a year or more" before adequate supplies of farm machinery and equipment will be available despite the lifting of the war time manufacturing ban.

He explained that the Federal government's action "merely permits farm machinery manufacturers to go into the open market for steel with which to make machines."

"What farmers need most right now is truck and tractor tires," he declared. "I understand the industrial tires released by government orders are not the type generally needed by the average farmer."

He said many tractors and trucks were idle because of a lack of tires.

MOTHER SENDS BLOOD TO WOUNDED SON

CUSICK, Wash. — (INS)—Pvt. Sammy Meshell, 19, Callispe Indian whose mother's blood was flown to Germany to save his life, is back on the reservation now—but not for long. Meshell was wounded in Germany, three Nazi machinegun bullets puncturing his stomach. Unable to find a corresponding blood type for transfusions, army medics put in a hurry call and an emergency donation of blood by his mother, Mrs. Annie Culloyah, was refrigerated and flown to the Western Front. Sammy recovered and returned to the Callispe tribal reservation near the Pend Oreille River east of Cusick.

BOSTON.—(INS)—The Massachusetts House of Representatives has approved a proposal to make it easier for "Peppia Team" who are caught. A bill was passed setting a penalty up to $100 and three months in prison for the offense.

SOW COVER CROP IN GARDENS NOW

Cover crops, vitally needed in every home garden to provide organic matter and water-holding capacity to the soil, should be sown now. The cheapest, surest, and most satisfactory cover crop is domestic ryegrass.

A good cover crop not only gives the soil a better physical condition, but if planted now will develop a vigorous growth that will stay green over the winter months. Ryegrass makes most of its growth in late fall and early spring when the garden is not in use. Ryegrass fills the soil with fibrous roots which are the best form of organic matter and equivalent to a coating of manure when organic matter alone is considered.

Ryegrass may be broadcast during August and up to September 15, but now is a good time to sow the seed, using one pound of seed for each 1,000 square feet of garden area. Broadcast the seed before the last cultivation is made, and cover lightly by making the last cultivation shallow.

TREAT BARLEY SEED TO CONTROL DISEASE

All barley seed not known to be completely free of loose and covered smut, and tripe should be treated.

The most satisfactory treatment requires one-half ounce of New Improved Ceresan per bushel. Barley seed should be treated at least three days before planting. The effectiveness of control increases with the length of time the seed is held between treating and planting.

Barley may be treated in commercial treating machines, in Minnesota gravity treaters, or in the double-acting treating machines.

DARK WASHABLES

Dark-colored clothes of washable fabric often are favored for summer wear because they show soil less than light colors, yet can be tubbed at home rather than dry-cleaned. If they are to keep their clear dark color after washing and show no whitish or greyish streaks or spots, special care in laundering is necessary.

Use softwater for washing dark-colored fabrics if possible, but avoid strong water softeners which may fade colors. Make a good thick suds of lukewarm water. Avoid soaking. Put in garments, and wash as rapidly as possible. If the water is hard, make a second lighter suds for the first rinse—a soapy rinse that will ease out any curds from the hardness in water. Or rinse in lukewarm water containing a little vinegar. Then rinse at least twice in clear water. Traces of soap leave grayish streaks on dark fabric so thorough rinsing is important.

White starch shows on dark fabric. If starching is necessary, tint the starch before using. For brown clothes, tint starch with coffee or tea. For dark-blue clothes, use bluing in the starch. Or use the ready-tinted starch on the market. Another way to stiffen dark fabric is with a gelatin dip. Soften 2 tablespoons of granulated gelatin in a little cold water, then dissolve it in 2 or 3 quarts of boiling water, and let cool to lukewarm. Dip garment in the solution, squeeze and dry.

Hang clothes in the shade until just the right dampness for ironing, or roll up in a Turkish towel. Avoid sprinkling. It may leave the fabric with a spotty look.

Christian Endeavor Against Conscription

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Aug. 24 (INS)—The Pennsylvania Christian Endeavor Union was on record today with a resolution opposing permanent peace time conscription.

Delegates to the summer assembly at Penn Hall in Chambersburg approved a resolution objecting to congressional consideration of compulsory military training in peace time "until that day when our servicemen can adequately voice their vote on this controversial issue."

The assembly asserted that it was fallacious to argue that conscription was necessary to train American youths.

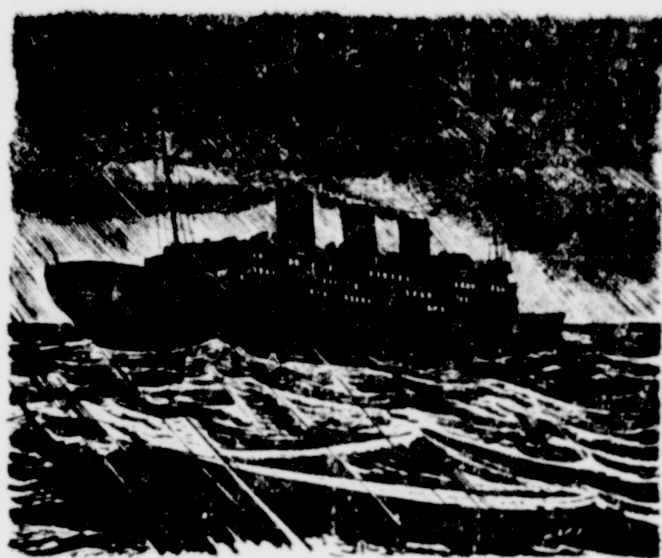

Church, home and school instruction would mold intelligent citizenship, the assembly stated. Other resolutions adopted by the 225 delegates condemned anti-Christian tendencies militating against racial cooperation and the church belief in the universal brotherhood of man; indecent and salacious literature; and the "discriminate" advertising of intoxicants.

The assembly also urged the Nation to put more energy into "working for peace" than was spent in the war effort.

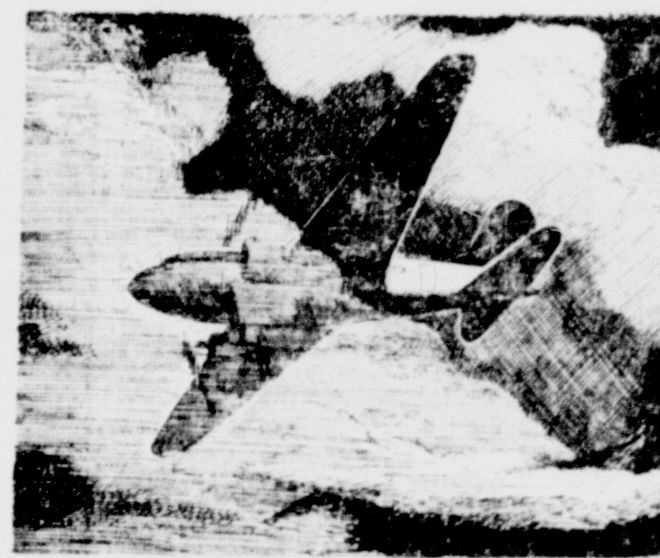

It is estimated that the size of the United States post-war merchant marine fleet ranges from 15-600,000 to 20,000,000 deadweight tons.

SAFE? OR COLLISION IN FOG? No longer need unseen dangers, lurking in fog or darkness, be the cause of a disaster at sea. Today radar sees through the fog, locates other ships, buoys, icebergs, derelicts, shorelines.

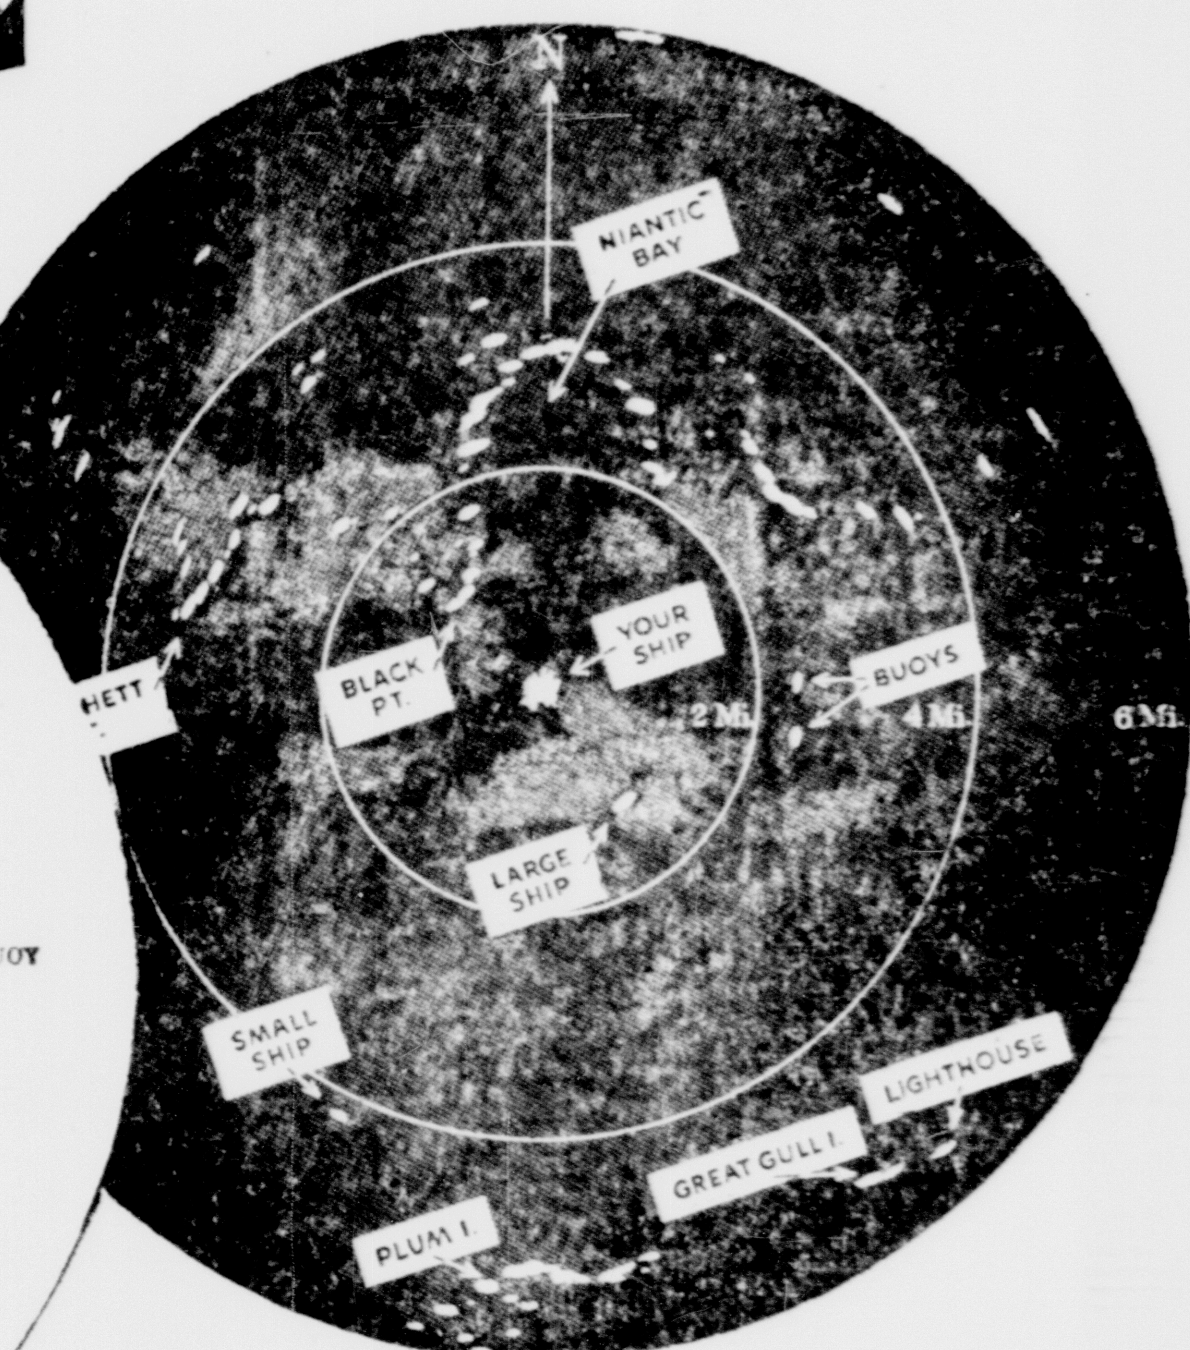

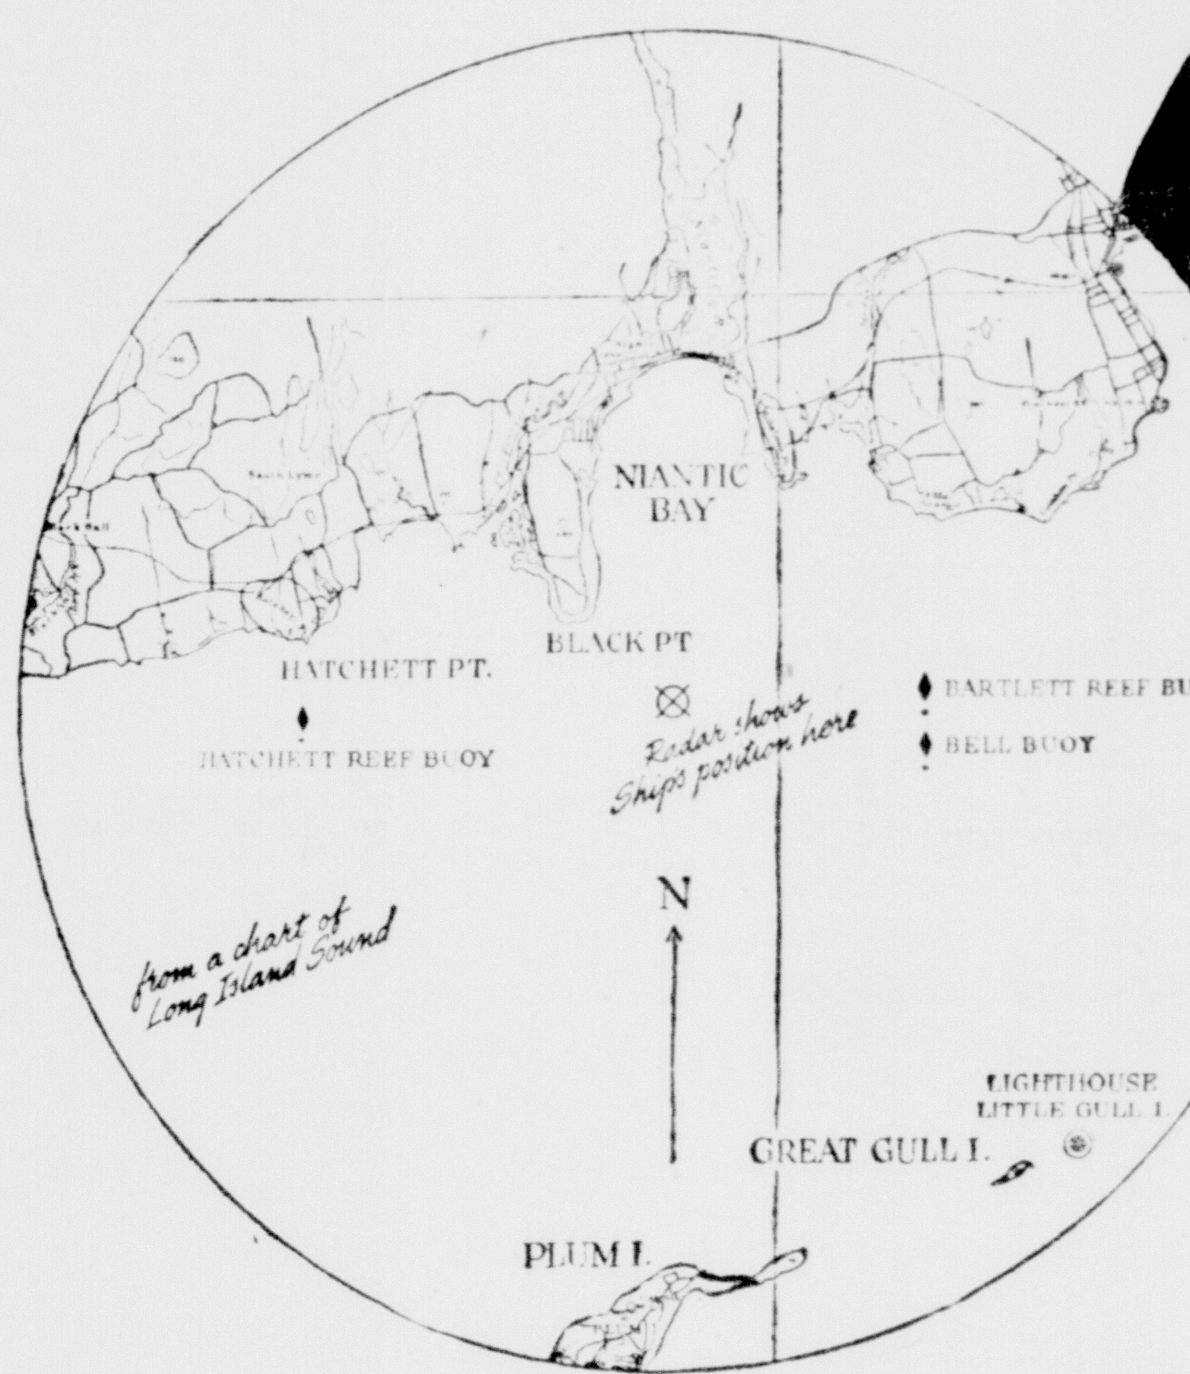

MOUNTAINS OR BUILDINGS AHEAD! Fog and bad weather will lose much of their terror with radar-equipped planes. Radar will warn the pilot of mountains, other planes and city skylines, help him to fly a safe course.

NOW, RADAR FOR COMMERCIAL SHIPS. On the bridge of "American Mariner," U. S. Maritime Service training ship, General Electric's new Electronic Navigator shows how radar can be used to help plot a safe course. This, we believe, is the first peacetime application of radar, demonstrated in the photo below.

Safe courses can be charted through fog and night in congested, ship-filled harbors.

SEVERAL ARRESTS FOR TIRES' THEFT

General Tire Company Employee
Questioned About Theft And Sale Of 16 Tires Recently

City, state police and constables Thursday rounded up a number of persons reportedly connected with the theft of tires and receiving stolen goods, according to Police Chief Robert D. Hanna. The inquiry and arrests followed a report by Sam Edelstein, General Tire company, South Jefferson street, that 16 tires had been stolen recently from his warehouse. Eight of the tires were recovered, Chief Hanna reported.

Donald E. Malone, employee of the tire company, was arrested and is being quizzed today by authorities who are anxious to ascertain where the remaining eight tires, allegedly stolen, were disposed of.

Robert Smith, 28 Fairview avenue, Warren, confessed, police say, he had bought four tires from Malone, Clair Druschell, R. D. 1, reportedly confessed he also bought four from Malone and other man was being questioned at detective headquarters today as to his possible connection with receiving some tires.

Police Claim Confessions

Chief of Police Hanna swore to an information in which he charged Smith and Druschell with receiving stolen goods before Alderman J. C. Bruce First Ward Druschell pleaded guilty and gave bond for court. Smith did not enter a plea but gave bail for a hearing. Another man charged with receiving stolen goods has not yet been arraigned, but is being quizzed at detective headquarters.

Malone, according to Police Chief Hanna, confessed to having stolen the tires over a period of time dating back to August 13. Edelstein notified Lieut. G. S. Kennedy of the asserted thefts and the roundup by city state police and constables resulted.

Annual Picnic At Neshannock Creek
Beach Expected To Attract
Membership

All arrangements have been completed by the committee in charge for the annual picnic of the MacDonough and Shenango Valley Engineers society, which will take place Saturday afternoon and evening at El Rio Beach.

The committee in charge has arranged a good program of sports and activities, which will start in the afternoon and continue on thru the evening, with plenty of refreshments and eats for all.

New Castle Vet At Deshon Annex

It isn't far from Adams street to the Deshon Annex, but Staff Sgt. Roy M. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Davis of 936 Adams street, made it by way of England and Germany. He is a patient at the Annex, now recuperating from wounds received in the Ruhr pocket on April 8.

Sgt. Davis was a member of Company G, 121st infantry, eighth division, and saw plenty of active service until a German shell cut him down in the Ruhr. After being evacuated to hospitals in England he was brought back to the states and on June 17 went to Deshon General hospital in Butler.

He wears three campaign stars, the ETO ribbon, the Purple Heart, the wound contract ribbon and the combat infantry soldier's badge. He is a graduate of the New Castle high school, class of 1941, and before the war was employed by the Johnson Bronze company.

The MacArthur Epic FROM BATAAN TO VICTORY

by war correspondent LEE VAN ATTA

LEE VAN ATTA

He has been with MacArthur longer than any other American newspaper man and is an honorary member of the famous Fifth Air Force.

Yes, now it can be told—the inside story of General Douglas MacArthur's spectacular triumph over the Japs; of his step-by-step military comeback despite overwhelming odds, from the dismal days of Bataan to the glorious day of final victory in the Pacific War. Lee Van Atta, veteran INS war correspondent in the Pacific kept elaborate diary notes on how MacArthur outwitted the enemy at every turn and how he helped to drive the Japs to their final doom. For the first real story of how this remarkable general turned the tables on the Japs to become the key figure in their surrender, be sure to read Lee Van Atta's thrilling series.

SPOTLIGHT Of Today

(International News Service)

Ten years ago Col. Frank McCarthy was making the rounds as a cub reporter for the Richmond, Va., New Leader. Today the 33-year-old "wonder boy" bears practically full responsibility for the executive management of the State department's vast organization.

The McCarthy saga has official and semi-official Washington backing on the papers. Few know exactly who he is. Many know nothing about him. But those who have followed his career know that he has been a prime mover in the career of John C. Humes as assistant secretary of state in charge of administration.

A Virginia tall, lean McCarthy has always been closely linked with the Virginia military institute. He holds an A. B. degree from that school and was an instructor in its halls for the better part of three years.

From 1937 through 1939, the new State department leader hunched in the shifting halls of Broadway.

He acted as press agent for such successes as "Three Men On A Horse" and "Bother Rat." Broadway, however, has left no mark upon him, either in thinking or speaking.

Called to active army duty in 1940 McCarthy worked a rapid road from lieutenant to colonel by seeing that as assistant secretary of the general staff in charge of liaison with the White House, and later as full secretary of the general staff.

While he is still to make a name for himself in the rocky diplomatic field, capital friends of McCarthy feel sure that he had a groundwork for success when he accompanied Gen. Marshall to a number of international conferences, and so on in an assorted list of three meetings.

Population Increases 8 Million Since 1940

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(INS)—America's vastly changed business of living was summed up today in a war's end review by the bureau of census.

From birth, through marriage, work and death, here are the high spots of the report:

Births and Deaths—There were 2,200,000 births and 1,100,000 deaths in the five million civilian deaths in the three and one-half year period July 1, 1945.

Population—There are now 139,682,000 persons in the United States, an increase of over eight million since the 1940 census.

Marriages—About 5,477,000 persons married during the war. The marriage rate reached an all-time high of 13.5 per 1,000 population in 1942.

Employment—The peak was about fifty-five million in July 1943. Factory employment nearly doubled, from nine and one-half million persons in 1939 to seventeen million in 1944.

Women workers increased from 11 million in 1940 to more than eighteen million in 1945. Unemployment in July 1944 was only about a million or less than two per cent of the labor force.

Manufacturing—Dollar volume nearly tripled from 1938 to 1944, fifty-seven billion dollars to more than 150 billion dollars.

Manufacture of durable goods, chiefly war material, quadrupled, aircraft production was multiplied by 25.

Retail Trade—Despite wartime shortages, retail trade rose from forty-three billion dollars in 1939 to seventy billion dollars in 1944. There was a "record consumption" of clothing, food and beverages.

Wholesale Trade—Dollar value of wholesale trade almost doubled from $10.5 billion dollars in 1939 to one hundred billion dollars in 1944.

Exports and Imports—1944's exports of fourteen billion dollars worth of goods nearly tripled 1941's exports. However, more than one third of this amount was lend-lease, principally military equipment.

Cost of Government—While the national debt soared, state and local government debts shrank from a peak of twenty billion dollars in 1940 to seventeen billion dollars in 1944.

Jim Hendrix Leaves In Shirt Sleeves

Witnessed Son's Getting Congressional Medal in Shirt Sleeves, Now Going Home

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(INS)—Jim Hendrix leaves Washington today for his tenant farm in Le-panto, Ark.—still in his shirt sleeves. Jim and the "Missus" were brought to the capital to be present when President Truman pinned the Congressional Medal of Honor on young Jim. Staff Sgt. James R. Hendrix.

Jim works hard on his 40 acres of corn and cotton in the bottom lands along the St. Francis river and has little time for social activities.

When the tenant farmer, wife Pearl and a niece, Mrs. E. V. Waldo of Coffeyville, Miss., who was "just a visitor" at the farm—arrived in Washington they went to the swank crystal dining room at the Willard hotel.

No Coat—No Dinner
They sat down and started to order but were told they couldn't be served because Jim wasn't dressed properly. He was minus a coat and tie. Jim didn't argue, just took his folks to a nearby restaurant.

Yesterday the toll-worn farmer went to the White House to witness the medal ceremonies, proud as "git-out" but still in his shirt sleeves. Then later, the hotel management apologized to Jim and invited him back to dinner last night. He came back again without coat or tie.

Jim was asked today how he planned to go back to his Arkansas farm. His weather-beaten face broke into a grin as he replied: "Still in my shirt sleeves."

State Is Wrong, Contends Shaffer

Mercer County Man Believes Road Should Go Around His House Instead Of Moving It

MERCER, Pa., Aug. 24.—At a hearing held yesterday involving the location of a road by the State Highway Department through the property of Frank Shaffer of West Middlesex, Judge George H. Rowley informed that he could not substitute his judgment for that of Gov. Edward Martin and the State Highway Department have approved in the relocation of Route 43902 through Shaffer's property.

The court statement was made following a hearing on the Mercer County Commissioner's petition to show cause why a writ of possession for the property should not be granted.

Judge Rowley, however, stated he would hand down his decision within ten days thus allowing Shaffer's attorney time in which to contact the governor's office in a final attempt to change the road's relocation.

Shaffer's contention is that the road, which is to connect with one to New Bedford, should pass on either side of his frame dwelling in order that the house would not have to be moved by the county.

Representatives of the state highway department testified as to the necessity of the location determined upon to avoid a sharp and dangerous curve and would destroy the property of other land owners.

The county commissioners state that they had agreed to settle with Shaffer but that the amount of settlement as made by the viewers is

Christmas Shopping Not Early This Year

Moshi, was that someone asking for Christmas cards? Ninety-nine, ninety-two—over one hundred shopping days until Christmas, and swimming, not ice skating, is still the sport of the hour.

But, believe it or not, salespeople admit reluctantly that the first inquiries for cards and the first purchases of gift linens and china have been made.

Jewelry stores notice the preview of Christmas shopping more than any other group of stores with personal gifts such as watches and diamonds already laid away for the holiday season. When the price is big, the shopping usually begins early.

Pseudo-Spree

As for the other gifts, most stores are inclined to regard these purchases as merely pseudo-Christmas buying and not the real thing at all. They explain it as being caused by a wartime attitude of when-you-see-it-buy-it-at-once, which results in the immediate snapping up of towel and wash cloth sets and of almost anything made of linen and, of course, of all sheer stockings.

The "real thing" is being held back, however, by an attitude which is the direct result of the end of hostilities. Now that the war is over, and now that civilian goods are once more claiming first place on the country's production list, people are thinking to themselves, "Instead of buying this wartime stuff, why don't I wait until nearer Christmas when the quality of the merchandise will probably be better and I will be able to find all of the things which I want for my gift list." And so they wait.

Early Shopper Not So Smart

Whether or not the merchandise will really improve so much is still open to question, but local store managers believe that it will, and furthermore, they definitely believe that the wise shopper will be the later shopper this year.

Very little shopping has been done for the man overseas, although Christmas boxes may be sent to him after September 15. Boxes of hard candy, chocolates and rum drops have been purchased, but not many other gifts, probably because neither the servicemen nor his family is quite sure whether he will be celebrating in Germany or under his own Christmas tree at home.

Envoys Feared Suicide Pilots

Jap Emissaries To Surrender Parley Took Roundabout Course To Avoid Trouble

Editor's note: Clark Lee, International News Service staff correspondent, reveals for the first time in the following story that members of the Japanese surrender mission so feared their own die-hard suicide pilots that they took a long, roundabout route to the Manila surrender conference.

"Kamikaze pilots, says Lee, forced the circuitous flight from Tokyo when they threatened to shoot down the transport planes bearing the Japanese delegation."

By CLARK LEE
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

OKINAWA, Aug. 24.—Japanese surrender emissaries in their flight to Manila last week had to take a roundabout route to avoid being shot down by their own stubborn, war-loving suicide pilots.

Both Japanese army and navy war lords were united in this instance against the Kamikazes, but even defeat has failed to end their ancient and bitter feud.

For instance, an American officer asked a Japanese colonel during the conference about barracks and other accommodations for Allied occupation forces.

"If you want suitable living quarters for Americans," the Japanese officer replied resentfully, "ask the Japanese navy. They have all the conveniences and comforts. As for the Japanese army, we live in rice paddies."

It was also noted the two branches of the Japanese armed services had failed to compare figures on casualties caused by the two atomic bombs which fell on Japan.

The Jap Navy representatives at Manila estimated 14,000 dead at Hiroshima while the Army said 39,000 had been killed.

This wide variance between official estimates was further evidence of the lack of coordination between Hirohito's Army and Navy, a factor aggravated in recent months.

Both the Army and Navy delegates, however, found themselves teaming up together on another score when a more or less common enemy appeared to prevent their flight to Manila.

To avoid being downed by their own die-hard Kamikaze suicide pilots, the delegates were forced on a circuitous flight from Tokyo, after some of the Kamikazes threatened to prevent the surrender conference.

The delegates flew north from Tokyo, then west, south and east, finally arriving at an airfield where planes marked in accordance with Gen. MacArthur's specifications were waiting.

Suicide Oath
Though their country has put the war, these Kamikaze pilots cannot seem to see they were clear to getting out of their suicide oath which binds them to sacrifice their lives for an emperor who no longer wants them to do so.

Before the surrender, however, the enemy between the Jap Army and Navy extended itself in rivalry over the effectiveness of their respective "special attack corps" of suicide airmen.

These airmen no longer have any official standing, but some still have planes. How many of these still be able to take the air against our occupation forces—unless they can be dissuaded from such a course before our occupation—probably will depend on how much gasoline is available at their respective fields.

Cease Fire Order Given All Japs

Japanese Headquarters Inform MacArthur Of Cease Firing Order To All Fronts

MANILA, Aug. 24.—(INS)—Japanese general headquarters notified Gen. Douglas MacArthur today in a lengthy radio message that Emperor Hirohito's formal "cease fire" order has reached Jap forces in all areas where they "are in contact with the allies."

The Jap message also complained of Russian submarine activity in the South China Sea, between Karafuto and Hokkaido, and claimed that "peace and order are steadily deteriorating in the Nanking, Shanghai and Hangchow area."

Most Defiant Selves
Japanese troops in China, the message said, are being "forced to take action for self defense."

The message also said that Jap forces on the some islands of Honshu, Shikoku and Kyushu ceased all hostilities from the zero hour of August 22. Reference to "cessation of hostilities" in the home islands was believed to mean that possibly recalcitrant forces had agreed to lay down their arms.

The Jap message declared that some forces with which communications have been severed—namely units in Burma and Borneo—may continue to fight.

In general, the Japs said, cessation of hostilities is in "fair progress," but warned that fighting is continuing in some sectors of Asia due to what was called the "unwarranted attack" of forces under allied control.

Kaplan To Carry Decision Into Court

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24.—(INS)—Eddie Kaplan, Pittsburgh business man, today planned a court fight to clear his name of charges that he was party to a conspiracy in which Louis (Blondy) Ryan allegedly took an eye test in a Philadelphia hospital in place of Harry Bobo.

The Pennsylvania Athletic Commission, which yesterday revoked Kaplan's license as a prize fight manager, had banned Bobo from the ring because of an injured eye.

The commission's ruling followed a study of a brief filed by Kaplan's attorney, Pat Cox. A hearing was held on July 31 in Pittsburgh at which Kaplan, Bobo, Ryan and others testified.

Nelson Leads In Knoxville Open

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 23.—(INS)—A first-round 3-and-a-half-67 gave winning to the field in the $13,333 Knoxville Open Golf tournament today that Byron Nelson again was the man to beat.

He was in far more brilliant form than in the recent Memphis open which contrary to all expectations he lost. The Toledo O. previous winner finished his 67 with a 35 in his first tournament appearance since being discharged from the army and Texas Prins of Dayton, Ohio.

In a practice round a few hours earlier he shot a 6-under-par 66.

Saved Fliers By Posing As 'Lover' For 512 Journeys

Belgian Heroine Escorted
Allied Fliers To Safety
By Staging Sweetheart Act

By LOWELL BENNETT
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Aug. 24.—(INS)—Michou is a young lady with a record. During the past three years she has had five hundred and twelve lovers, each of whom she accompanied on a thousand mile underground trek from Belgium to Spain, to return them to the Allied air forces.

Her story, disclosed for the first time today, is one of sustained skill and heroism and a role which would have taxed the most experienced stage actress. For three war-years, she accompanied shot down Allied fliers, posing as their sweetheart, from the north of Europe to Spain and safety.

A nurse in Ostend until 1942, Michou became an underground worker when the Nazis deported her younger sister and her father into Germany. The attractive, 24-year-old brunette was at first a liaison agent, eventually becoming the chief of an important branch of the European resistance movement.

45 Americans, Ecuadorians, Michou's record of pseudo lovers, whose lives she saved by a remarkable piece of acting, is as follows: 45 Americans, 450 British, 11 Belgians, 4 Poles and 2 Russians. All of them were fliers, evading the German protective police after being shot down over Europe.

She went with each along the "coast road"—through Brussels and Paris to the Spanish frontier—to meet Florentino, a former smuggler at a secret rendezvous in the Pyrenees mountains in the south of France. There, for eighty dollars apiece, the smuggler-mountaineer took over, leading the airmen along hidden paths into Spain.

Michou reckons she kissed her "lovers" and called them "my darling" thousands of times, whenever the prying Gestapo became interested in the couple traveling southward in a French train. Each time at the frontier, there was an anticlimax: the love affairs were ended and the flier returned to his country and his work.

Her five hundred and twelfth lover, however, was the one that came true. He was a young Belgian parachutist, a lieutenant, and Michou awaits his return so they can be married.
